4.2 Study the information below and answer the questions that follow.

THE AUSTRALIAN CHALLENGE

The Australians see this site as a celebrated icon and take pride in its natural beauty. To the Aborigines (indigenous people) it is a sacred site, supporting them financially and spiritually.

However, there is an issue of contention (conflict) between the Aborigines and other Australians over the use of the icon and the land surrounding it. The main reason is over permission being granted to climb this ancient sacred site. The Aborigines have requested visitors not to climb the sacred site; but this request has been ignored in favour of profits and the desire to reach the top of this magnificent icon.

Climbing has eroded (worn away) part of the rock. The lack of bins and proper regulations means tourists do whatever they like during the climb. In 2017 an average of 400 000 tourists visited the national park, exceeding the targeted number of 300 000 per year. Aborigines say they do not benefit from tourism. The resort located near the icon, employs just one Aborigine out of a staff of 670 people.

[Adapted from www.cnn.com]

- 4.2.1 Identify the icon in this article. (1)
- 4.2.2 Name ONE other icon located in Australia. (1)

QUESTION 5

5.1 Read the information below and answer the questions that follow.

THE #KHOMANI CULTURAL LANDSCAPE

The #Khomani Cultural Landscape being declared a World Heritage Site shows the acknowledgement by UNESCO of the universal value and importance of this site as a living heritage.

The #Khomani and other San tribes are unique in that they descend directly from an ancient group of people that existed in Southern Africa many thousands of years ago.

The #Khomani San had a nomadic (constantly moving around) culture and lived off the land. They used plants for medicinal purposes and for rituals. Few of the tribe members still practise their traditional hunter-gatherer lifestyle. The #Khomani San are skilled trackers using traps, spears, bows and arrows coated with snake venom (poison) or poisonous plants when hunting. Many of the #Khomani San also earn an income from tourism by selling traditional jewellery and artefacts to tourists.

[Adapted from Sawobona, September 2017 and Indwe, October 2017]

QUESTION 9

9.1 Read the news article below and answer the questions that follow.

POSSIBLE DISASTER – OR NOT?

The outbreak of bird flu and the Robben Island ferry (passenger boat) that almost sank in 2017 had negative consequences for the tourism industry in South Africa.

BIRD FLU OUTBREAK

The H5N8 bird flu virus (which is not harmful to humans) caused the death of many wild birds throughout South Africa.

Popular attractions reacted to the threat in different ways:

- The Monte Casino Bird Gardens in Gauteng was closed during the school holidays.
- The World of Birds in Cape Town no longer received ducks, geese and chickens from the public, but remained open for visits.
- To stop the bird flu spreading outside the Johannesburg Zoo, vehicles were sprayed with disinfectant. Visitors were asked to disinfect their shoes and feet. They had to step into footbaths as they left the zoo.
