1 Meaning of teamwork

- Teamwork can be defined as a joint action by a group of people in which each person gives up his/her interests and options for the common goal of the team.
- This means that effective and efficient teamwork goes beyond individual accomplishments.
- Teamwork is a joint effort by group members where they give up their individual opinions and strive to work together to achieve a common goal.

1.1 Importance of teamwork

- Teams have a common goal/purpose that unites team members.
- Teamwork leads to synergy, commitment, high productivity, employee empowerment, job satisfaction and organisational effectiveness.
- Effective teamwork can provide a basis for consistency in performing at a high level

2 Stage of team development

2.1 Forming stage

- This stage is the initial stage where team members get to know one another.
- Team members think about their new tasks and new environment
- The team learns about team processes and procedures.
- Team members gather information and impressions about each other.
- This is a comfortable stage to be in.
- People focus on being busy with routines, such as team organisation e.g. who does what, when to meet each other, etc.

2.2 Storming

- The team begins to face technical, interpersonal and social problems.
- Team members could end up fighting and arguing.
- At this stage, there is conflict because they confront each other with their ideas.
- The true character of team members starts to show as they experience the first round of conflict
- Different ideas from team members will compete for consideration.
- Team members open up to each other and confront each other's ideas/perspectives.
- This stage is often unpleasant, but teams must grow.
- Team members need to be mature, patient and tolerant of each other's ideas and behaviour in order to move successfully to the next stage.

2.3 Norming/ Settling and Reconciliation

- The team starts working through individual/social issues and starts to settle down.
- Team members establish their norms and behaviour.
- They begin to trust each other, and reconciliation takes place.
- A team develops good interpersonal skills and members become better at problem solving.
- Team members accept each other and set common goals and values for the team.
- Team members form agreement and consensus.
- Roles and responsibilities are clear and accepted.
- Team members have the ambition to work for the success of the team's goals.
- They cross-train and learn new job skills.
- Team members manage time and quality work with growing competence, confidence and independence.

2.4 Performing/Working Together towards achieving a goal

- In this stage, the teams are achieving their goals by helping each other
- Team members are aware of the strategies and aims of the team.
- They have direction without interference from the leader.
- Leaders delegate and oversee the processes and procedures.
- Team members know each other and can function as a unit.
- They find ways to get the job done smoothly without conflict/external supervision.
- Conflict disappears, problems are solved, and successive goals are achieved.
- Team members are motivated and can handle disagreements maturely/positively.
- The team takes pride in its work and accomplishments.

2.5 Adjourning/ Mourning

- In this stage, team members must leave the team and prepare themselves for the next team.
- The focus is on the completion of the task/ending the project rather than on task performance.
- All tasks need to be completed before the team finally dissolves
- It's also the stage for recognition for participation and achievement.
- Breaking up the team may be traumatic as team members may find it difficult to perform as individuals once again.

3 Conflict Management

3.1 Meaning of conflict management

- Conflict management is the process of planning to prevent conflict where possible and organising to resolve conflict as quickly as possible.
- All members of the organisation need to develop ways of keeping conflict to a minimum and solving problems caused by conflict.
- Conflict can be positive if managed correctly since it means communication is taking place.

3.2 Meaning of Conflict

- Conflict is a struggle/disagreement/argument between two people.
- Disagreement between two parties in which one or both parties believe that a personal interest/need is threatened

3.3 Causes of Conflict

- Personal differences/Different personalities
- Poor communication
- Competition
- Ignoring rules/procedures
- Poor organization/leadership/administrative procedures and systems
- Workload and stress/Unrealistic expectation
- Confusion about scheduling and deadlines
- Unclear responsibilities
- Distracted by personal objectives
- Lack of/Insufficient resources
- Constant changes
- Different goals/objectives for groups/individuals
- Different opinions
- Unrealistic expectations
- Poor organisation/leadership/administrative procedures and systems
- Confusion about scheduling/deadlines
- Misconduct/Unacceptable behaviour
- Unclear responsibilities
- Distracted by personal objectives
- Constant changes in the workplace
- Unfair treatment of workers/Favoritism by management/Discrimination
- Lack of trust among workers

3.3.1 Explanation of Causes of Conflict in the Workplace

- Lack of proper communication between management and workers.
- Ignoring rules/procedures may result in disagreements and conflict.
- Management and/or workers may have different personalities/ backgrounds.
- Different values/levels of knowledge/skills/experience of managers/workers.
- Little/no cooperation between internal and/or external parties/stakeholders.
- Lack of recognition for good work, e.g. a manager may not show appreciation for extra hours worked to meet deadlines.
- Lack of employee development may increase frustration levels as workers may repeat errors due to a lack of knowledge/skills.
- Unfair disciplinary procedures, e.g. favouritism/nepotism.
- Little/no support from management with regard to supplying the necessary resources and providing guidelines.
- Leadership styles used, e.g. autocratic managers may not consider worker inputs.
- Unrealistic deadlines/Heavy workloads lead to stress resulting in conflict.
- Lack of agreement on mutual matters, e.g. remuneration/working hours.
- Unhealthy competition/Inter-team rivalry may cause workers to lose focus on team targets.
- Lack of commitment/Distracted by personal objectives which may lead to an inability to meet pre-set targets.
- Constant changes may cause instability
- Lack of clarity regarding employees' roles and responsibilities.

3.3 Conflict Management Theories

3.3.1 Traditional theory

- This theory is based on the notion that conflict is bad and should be avoided as it disturbs the running of an organisation.
- This approach assumes that conflict is caused by troublemakers who do not identify with the goals of the organisation.
- These troublemakers are seen as undesirable because they are seen as causing trouble for management.
- Conflict should therefore be avoided according to this approach.
- Management thus uses its power to suppress the troublemakers and should force them out of the organisation.
- This leads to a win-lose situation, with management retaining control and restoring their order while the troublemaker is forced to fit in or move out of the organisation.

3.3.2 Contemporary theory

- This theory is based on the belief that conflict is a normal part of human interaction.
- Conflict arises as a normal result of change.
- It is understood that conflict can be beneficial and has the potential to lead to constructive changes within the organisation.
- Conflict must be managed through conflict resolution skills.
- Conflict situations often generate new ideas and change.
- Management thus seeks to use strategies such as negotiation and consultation to arrive at a win-win situation.
- Consultation and negotiations with unions and workplace forums are good examples of implementing contemporary theories.
- Management can thus achieve an outcome that is acceptable to management and employees through such negotiations.

4 Meaning of workplace forums

- A workplace forum is an elected organisation consisting of employees in a workplace.
- It is a forum for employees of a business that employs more than 100 people.
- Workplace forums were introduced by the Labour Relations Act.
- They are useful for promoting communication, minimising and resolving conflict in the workplace.
- A trade union will request the CCMA to form a workplace forum.
- Employers must give workplace forums all information that is relevant to workers.
- Workplace forums prevent employers from making all the decisions about matters which directly affect employees without consulting them.

4.1 Function of workplace forums

- Prevent unilateral decisions made by employers on issues affecting the employees.
- Encourages worker's participation in decision-making.
- The workplace forum has the right to be consulted by the employer.
- Promotes the interests of all employees in the workplace.
- Promotes efficiency in the workplace through inputs/recommendations.
- Consult with the employer to reach a consensus about working conditions.
- Consult with the employer on issues that could cause conflict
- Resolves conflict between employers and employees.
- Improve efficiency and productivity through input/recommendations.

4.2 Ways in which a workplace forum differs from a trade union

- A trade union is a legal entity that can be sued or be sued in its name.
- A trade union negotiates salaries and wages, whereas a workplace forum does not deal with remuneration.
- A trade union can organise a strike under certain circumstances, whereas a workplace forum cannot.
- Non-union members can belong to a workplace forum.
